Maronie & Miyatan

Jackie Kerry the Bat bringing you The Burning Giraffe*1
To all good kids tuning in, this is B Super B!
*T/N "Kirin" was in Katakana so I left it as a name instead of translating it. Kirin = Giraffe. If you haven't figured it out, Kirin can also mean the Chinese unicorn. Or a brand of beer in Japan. In case you're wondering why the headquarters isn't called Burning Giraffe from the house next door can be heard. Sometimes there are also sounds of something knocking against the wall.
What should we do?
Please tell us, Kerry the Bat!
GYAAAAA!
When it's just past one in the morning, a scream
from Awabuku Town!
"Miyutan and Marone"
Now then we'll move on to question corner!
I mean what a long guitar solo! That's the great part!
But who cares about such details anyway, stupid?! Tambourine tambourine!!
Born to Boogie Version!
The first song is Gerooon by T.REX*2
English name Bagagooon!
IKEA*☆
Police
*T/N "Gerooon" - Get it on, "Bang A Gong" - Bagagooon. In a very slurred manner "Get It on (Bang A Gong)" is a 1972 song by T.Rex. If you didn't already know, Born to Boogie was a 1972 concert film starring T.Rex, produced by Ringo Starr.
*T/N A terrible pun. As you know, IKEA is a furniture store. Incidentally, "ikeiyia" in Japanese means "go". So what is written here is basically "Go to the police"

*T/N: Abt the pervert joke. This makes it even older lmao
...WELL THEN,
I THINK YOU ALREADY KNOW BUT
Now for another Mouldy Peaches. "New York is a huge grave..."
